Grand Jury indicts 17, recesses until October

By RICH ADAMS
The July Hancock County Grand Jury Friday afternoon handed down 17 indictments Friday afternoon, including seven each for three men charged with alleged burglary of automobiles parked at Shuffert Pontiac in Bay St. Louis. Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson said the Grand Jury handed down a total of 38 indictments this term. The 19 other indictments were issued by the Grand Jury during the first week of the current Circuit Court term July 14-18.

The indictments charge that Charles Jordan Jr., Charles Strong Jr., and Kenneth Rawley allegedly took equipment May 10 from cars parked on the Schuffert lot, according to Hancock County Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis. The trio allegedly took the following items:

- From a 1967 Ford Mustang, a manifold carburetor;
- From a 1974 Buick Regal, an AM-FM radio;
- From a 1974 Pontiac Grand Prix, an AM-FM eight track player, the dash, and a battery;
- From a 1977 Chevrolet Camaro, an AM-FM cassette player, a 40 watt amplifier, two speakers, and the dash;
- From a 1977 Ford Granada, a wiring harness, hood, battery, battery cables, and wheel covers;
- From a 1974 Oldsmobile, a dash and radio; and
- From a 1978 GMC van, an air conditioning duct and an AM-FM radio.

The Grand Jury handed down four indictments against Kenneth Fountain charging him with three counts of burglary of a dwelling and one count of burglary.

Fountain allegedly entered the home of Ray M. Stewart of Bay St. Louis on Feb. 20, 1980, taking a color television and a shotgun, according to the indictment.

Fountain also allegedly entered the home of Archie Blackmer of Lakeshore, taking an 11,000 BTU air conditioner on July 12, 1980.

The indictment also alleges that Fountain, accompanied by Dam Cramer, Wanda Cramer, and Patti Odum entered the home of Wayne Barrette in BaySide Park on June 2, 1980, removing two microwave ovens, a 21-inch color television set, a lamp, four banks, jewelry, six hanging baskets containing

Bay Catholic principal backs Project Headstart

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Principal Michael J. Ryan of Bay Catholic School in Bay St. Louis voiced his support Thursday morning of the Headstart Program which is located at the St. Rose de Lima campus of the school system.

The school principal also said all those with vested interest in the program would be consulted before any decision effecting the program would be reached.

HGH doctors cite resignation reasons

By ELLIS CUEVAS
A. A. (Dolph) Kellar, president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, stated Friday, "The board of supervisors will do everything they can to keep Hancock General Hospital open. This we have to do in order to provide services our people need and so rightfully deserve."

Kellar made this statement in light of three doctors resigning from the active staff at HGH, effective August 1, 1980. The three doctors who resigned from the active staff are Dr. Sidney Chevis, Dr. J.D. Rutherford, III and Dr. David Byrne. The three doctors will remain on the consulting staff.

Doctors Chevis and Rutherford reportedly maintained 50 per cent or more of the patient census at HGH. Both Bay St. Louis doctors report they will continue to operate their office on Dunbar Avenue with regular hours. Dr. Chevis said he is now on the active staff of Garden Park Hospital, Gulfport, and is working at the Emergency Room at Gulfport Memorial. He added, "I may also go on the active staff at Memorial."

Hospital awaits new evaluation

By ELLIS CUEVAS
A re-evaluation of Hancock General Hospital scheduled for Tuesday was canceled by Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation members, according to Harry Gilmore, HGH administrator.

Gilmore said, "I received a call from Ms. Janet Palouso, joint commission member, Monday at 3:30 p.m. telling me that the doctor could not make it because of a conflict."

The accreditation team doing the survey from Chicago will be rescheduled as soon as possible, Ms. Palouso told Gilmore.

Hancock General lost accreditation which was revealed in July because they had received approval but due to a technicality it was revoked.

It would have been the fourth consecutive one year accreditation which according to the Joint Commission is not allowed.

The evaluation of HGH was made on January 18, 1980. When the medical staff and hospital trustees heard of the adverse ruling they appealed the decision.

Dr. Sidney Chevis, then chief of staff at HGH, Dr. J.D. Rutherford, III, Gilmore, Rev. Charles Johnson, president of the board of trustees and Sam Favre, board attorney, went to Chicago to appeal the one-year-only accreditation which caused accreditation to be restored while the appeal was being made.

The high cost of appeal was considered by the HGH officials and they decided it would be better for them to drop the appeal and make application for a new evaluation by the commission.

Johnson and Gilmore said Friday, "The lack of accreditation does not affect Medicaid, Medicare, Blue Cross or any other Health Insurance at Hancock General."

Gilmore added, "We feel we are ready

"I will still continue my regular office hours at my clinic on Dunbar. The only difference is I will be making my rounds visiting my patients at Garden Park," Chevis stated.

Dr. Rutherford commented, "I will maintain regular office hours on Dunbar and take care of my patients. Arrangements will be made for the care of my patients needing hospitalization with doctors of their choice."

Administrator Harry Gilmore at HGH said the patient status was 21 on Friday. He said, "We normally have a census of 30 or 31 at this time of the year."

Rev. Charles Johnson, president of the board of trustees at HGH commented, "My main concern is that the hospital census has to be adequate to pay the bills of the hospital."

Rutherford said his main reason for resigning from the active staff at HGH was, "Poor planning, little action and follow through continues now as in the past."

Chevis went into further detail on his statement saying, "I feel that Hancock General does not have the equipment to offer patients the care they need for the present day. Hospital operations have to keep up to date."

"We are a 20-year-old hospital operating like it did when it opened. There are not any major changes in the equipment at HGH only some repairs. The conditions of the physical plant can be recognized by anyone taking a look," Chevis added.

Rev. Johnson said the reason given by Dr. Byrne resigning from the active staff was because he was unable to properly treat patients at a Gulfport hospital and Bay St. Louis.

Kellar indicated the board of supervisors did not realize conditions were as serious at HGH as they have turned out to be.

Space Shuttle faces potential setback

By EDGAR PEREZ
A second fire within three weeks during engine testing at NSTL in Hancock County Wednesday may pose a potentially serious setback to the Space Shuttle program.

NASA administrator Dr. Robert Frosch of Washington, D.C. added, however, an intensive review of the Space Shuttle program carried out over the past several weeks indicates NASA is still scheduling Columbia's first flight for next March.

Mack Herring, NASA's information officer at NSTL, said Friday a study team from the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala. will continue its investigation Monday into causes of last week's mishap.

Frosch noted after that team's study began Thursday that the probe would not be allowed to slow down efforts to meet the 1981 launch date.

Columbia is now in a hanger at the Kennedy Space Flight Center in Florida being prepared for flight, with the most recent schedule calling for its first operational flight into outer space in September, 1982.

The first orbital flight testing was originally scheduled for late 1978, but setbacks in the program have inched that date back some three years.

Herring said last week's fire broke out during a scheduled 100-second static firing of SSME Engine No. 0010, a flight spare being tested in an acceptance calibration run.

"Shutdown was initiated by an ac-celerometer mounted on a high-pressure oxidizer turbo pump," Herring explained.

"A LOX (liquid oxygen) system fire occurred with resulting damages to the

NORDA plans $5.3 million NSTL research laboratory

The Navy has awarded a design contract on a new $5.3 million oceanographic research laboratory at NSTL in Hancock County.

The lab will be used by the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity (NORDA).

Barlow and Plunkett, an architectural and engineering firm in Jackson, won the contract award under competitive procedures evaluated by the Southern Field Division of the Naval Facilities Engineering Command, Charleston, S.C.

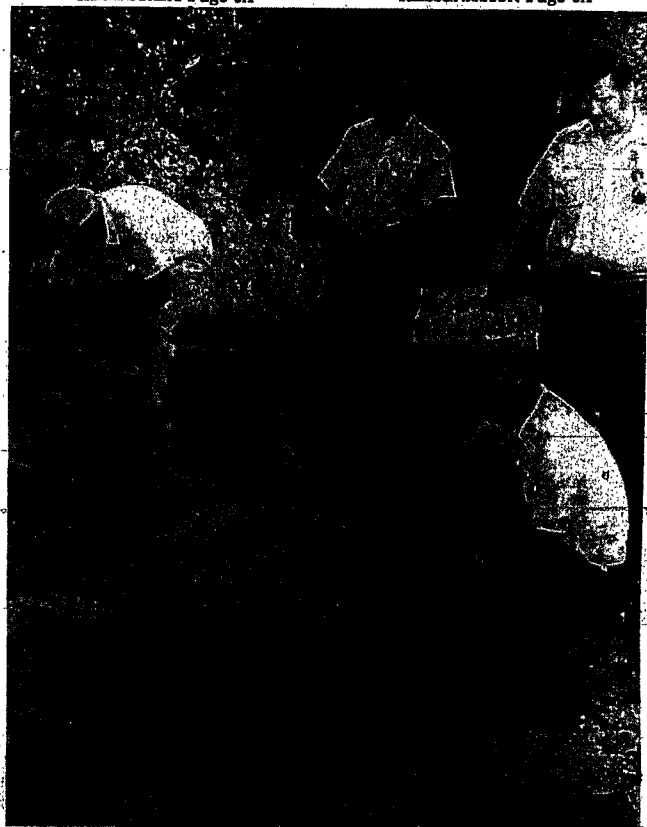

The design contract calls for architectural and engineering services in excess of $150,000. The design is to be completed by September, 1981. Actual solicitation of bids for construction of the building must await action on the Department of Defense Fiscal Year 1982 budget submission to Congress, in which funds for the building will be requested.

If Congress approves the funds for FY 1982, it is expected that the building could be completed in June, 1983.

News Brief

CLINIC HOURS
The Hancock County health Department will be opened for Well-Baby Clinic only on Thurs. between 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. due to a staff meeting in Gulfport.

ROAD VANDALIZED—Tigris Street in Shoreline Park suffered an estimated $1,000 or more in damages Thursday night, according to Supervisor Sam Perini. A section of the road approximately 10 feet wide was ripped up by three juveniles who have been arrested and turned over to the Youth Court. Perini, left, and Deputies Dennis Tartavouille and Glen Strong and District Four Superintendent Reedus Moran inspect the damage. Hancock Investigator Delbert Seay is investigating the incident. Seay said it probably took some time for the youngsters, of which the oldest is 11, to complete the damage. Sheriff Ronald Peterson again requested persons seeing something out of the ordinary to call his office at 467-5161. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

Hancock County teenager enters horseshoeing field

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Hancock County resident has undertaken a career thought to have become obsolete with the advent of the automobile.

But Dale Asher, 19, who lives on US-90 near Waveland, has been making a living as a horseshoer for the past two months and is the only professional horseshoer residing in Hancock County.

Albert Asher, Dale's father and owner of Asher's Grocery and Hardware Store, says his son has always enjoyed animals and particularly horses.

"Dale explains, 'Horseshoeing seemed like a nice job, I like to do it, the job is a lot of fun and I like horses.'"

The young horseshoer says he'll put shoes on just about any animal except an ox.

To learn this now uncommon trade Dale Asher attended a two-week course at the Oklahoma Horseshoeing School in Oklahoma City.

Asher reports, "In school we shod horses and studied animal leg bones."

While in school the young tradesman reports he shod several thoroughbred horses valued at more than $20,000 each.

"I can make corrective shoeing for lame horses and if a horse doesn't walk correctly I can make a shoe to help it walk right," Asher explains.

"There are more than 200 different types of corrective horseshoes I can make," Asher adds.

Asher says corrective shoes are frequently fashioned from iron rod or tempered round pipe.

Today's common horseshoes are made of relatively soft metal alloys which do not require the coal fired forge commonly portrayed in late night western movies manned by a burly blacksmith.

The young horseshoer, who stands well over six feet, says it takes an average of 45 to 90 minutes to shoe a horse.

"It costs $25 to shoe a horse, $12 to trim hoofs and $7 for each special shoe I have to make," Asher states.

In addition to his schooling expenses Asher also had to purchase some $250 of basic tools which include a hoof knife, rasp, hammer, gauge, shoe puller, nail nippers and a leather apron to protect his legs.

One of the most hazardous moments for a horseshoer is while nailing the shoe on the hoof.

A horseshoe nail is nailed from the bottom outer portion of the hoof so the nail pokes through the side of the hoof. After each nail is driven flush with the shoe the pointed end protruding from the hoof is cut off flush with the side of the hoof with the nippers.

Asher explains, "I've gotten my leg and hands cut when horses pulled their legs back before I nipped off the nail."

Often the result is a serious cut on a hand and sometimes a nail will rip right through the horseshoer's leather chaps, cutting a leg.

Asher also casually reports he has had his feet 'stomped' by horses several times.

The young tradesman isn't satisfied with just being a horseshoer for the rest of his life, but plans to eventually become a farrier or blacksmith after acquiring a forge to heat and shape metal.

Smith monitors chemical spill

By ELLIS CUEVAS

State Senator Martin Smith reported Saturday afternoon he has been in touch with State Emergency Services Coordinator Bob Rogers who told him his agency is working closely with the U.S. Coast Guard and NOAA on the PC-

P spill in Louisiana waters.

Smith said, "The location of the spill is so close to Mississippi waters, it has caused severe concern especially for the commercial and sport fishermen of Hancock County."

"I have been advised that at the present time it does not appear that we are going to have any effect from the spill. I am told by the U.S. Coast Guard that they will know with more certainty," Smith allowed.

The senator who represents Hancock and Pearl River Counties, also reported, "I have written a letter to State Attorney General Bill Allain asking that his office monitor the situation. Because if it should develop that Mississippi interest are adversely affected he can determine if any legal action on behalf of the State is necessary."

Smith added, "I intend to stay in touch with the emergency services coordinator until the PCP spill recovery is completed and all potential hazards eliminated."

TRAIN DERAILMENT

An L&N freight apparently derailed in the Ansley area near Pearl River Friday, according to Hancock Sheriff's Investigator Alvin Ladner. The Hancock Officer said he could only get to within a quarter of a mile of the site, but about 10 or 12 freight cars appeared to be off the track. Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson said no one from the railroad notified his office of the derailment. Ladner said he asked a railroad employee Saturday morning at the Ansley Crossing if there was a derailment and he was told 'Yes, there was one on Friday.'

high-pressure oxidizer turbo pump, LOX ducts and a controller," the NSTL official elaborated.

"Test facility damage was minimal," he added.

Herring noted by week's end, some damaged components had already been sent back to the manufacturer's Canoga Park, Calif. facility for repair and additional units may be removed from the single damaged engine as the Marshall study team continues its investigation this week.

Rockwell International is prime contractor on manufacture of the Shuttle engines.

Three-engine cluster firing tests are still in abeyance at NSTL following a July 12 fire when a planned 542-second cluster test was terminated 100 seconds into the run.

"An inspection following the test revealed a small hole in the No. Three Engine's fuel pre-burner which allowed burning gasses to escape into the area above a heat shield where the engine power heads are located," Herring's office reported at that time.

"Damage was confined to one engine with no damage to the facility or the remainder of the test article," NSTL reported in mid-July.

An investigation committee headed by Dr. Herman Thomason, deputy director of the Marshall Center's Science and Engineering Directorate, was appointed to determine causes of the cluster fire.

That committee has not as yet filed its final report, Herring pointed out.

The affected engine from that aborted test was also scheduled to be returned to California for inspection and repair.

Once operational, the Columbia will be a revolutionary orbital transport that will take off vertically like rockets of the past, but glide back to a landing like an airplane.

The craft, designed to carry up to seven adults, is slated to haul virtually all of the nation's satellites into space and will be able to bring some back.

plants, and a cactus garden.

Fountain is charged with burglary of the Hancock Supply Company in Waveland on June 27, 1980, from which he allegedly took $50 in cash and two staplers.

Two indictments were handed down against Darryle Smith, one for burglary and another for possession of a controlled substance.

Smith allegedly took a roll of postage stamps and $5 cash from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors on July 5, 1980. He also allegedly was in possession of marijuana at the time, the indictment stated.

Two indictments were handed down against Clarence Taylor for burglary. Taylor is charged with removing three sofa cushions from the Jackson House at Gulfside Methodist Assembly in Waveland on April 27, 1980.

Taylor, along with Eric Nichols and Reggie Laneaux, are charged with the July 5, 1980 burglary of Lush's Department Store in Bay St. Louis.

The Grand Jury alleges the trio took assorted clothing, a television set, a stereo with speakers, a microwave oven, 60 watches, assorted jewelry, a toaster-broiler, caps, a sewing box, and cigarette lighters.

Also indicted Friday was Jesse A. Green, charged with receiving stolen property on Feb. 16, 1980.

The Grand Jury alleges Green received a pistol and rifle which were stolen property.

The Grand Jury Friday also toured the jail complex, Hancock General Hospital, and Gulfview Haven Nursing Home.

Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos, who presided over the July term, then recessed the Grand Jury until Oct. 13, the start of the next court term.

The Grand Jury is expected to release its report on the county-owned facilities in October, according to the Circuit Court clerk's office.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Edmond Fahey III

Some people appear to get better breaks in life. Others appear to get more than their share of bad breaks. Good or bad, the breaks are a part of life. When depressing moods occur through sickness, financial difficulty, or other adversity, there is only one person who can help or hurt you. Only one person can break your nerve or crumble your hopes. Only one person can cripple your faith. That one person is YOU, YOURSELF.

Life is never a continuous peaceful path through a pleasant landscape. Life requires challenge, effort, exertion, determination, courage and sacrifice. Men like Mozart, Robert Louis Stevenson, Goethe, Nietzsche, Beethoven, Dickens, Michelangelo, Mark Twain and countless others of less fame overcame bad breaks. They proved the saying true—"Stick and stay and make it pay." You can too if you dare to decide to do it...

YOU AND YOUR PET

Manager of Veterinary Services

THE DIABETIC DOG

An obvious change in your dog's daily routine often signals a developing medical problem. Some of these problems are easily corrected; others take more time and professional attention.

One of the more serious danger signals is an increase in your pet's water intake, accompanied by a corresponding increase in urination. This may be a sign of diabetes mellitus or kidney failure.

Dr. John Kramer, a professor at Washington State University's College of Veterinary Medicine, estimates that diabetes mellitus affects about 1 out of every 800 dogs examined by veterinarians. The disease is not limited to aging pets. Young males and obese older females are susceptible.

A diabetic dog cannot produce enough insulin to efficiently regulate the amount of sugar in its blood. As a result, the excess sugar must be eliminated in the urine. To do this, the dog urinates more frequently, and must drink additional water to replace the larger amounts being excreted.

If the diabetes is not treated, the dog will begin to lose weight, even though it appears to have an adequate diet. An additional side effect may be the development of cataracts. In most cases, the cause of canine diabetes is never clearly identified. Research has shown that a few dogs inherit a tendency toward diabetes because they are born with too few insulin-producing cells, but these animals are in the minority.

We also know that inflammation of the pancreas, the organ that contains the insulin-secreting cells, may create a temporary form of diabetes, that subsides when the inflammation is controlled.

If your veterinarian diagnoses your dog as diabetic, the disease can be controlled. A major step is to reduce the dog's weight if it is too heavy, and regulate the amount of exercise the pet receives. The veterinarian will also determine the amount of insulin the pet must receive.

Because insulin is not available in tablet form, the dog owner must learn to administer insulin to his or her pet by injection. The technique of giving an injection is not as difficult as gathering up the courage to do the job. Your veterinarian will teach you the technique, as well as bolster your courage. You will learn that the amount of insulin your pet needs is directly related to its weight. For this reason, diabetic pets receive carefully regulated amounts of food, and between meal snacks are out.

Another factor that affects insulin use is the female dog's heat cycle. The hormonal changes that occur during heat make the dog's heat cycle. The hormonal changes that occur during heat make the dog's insulin requirements fluctuate widely. To avoid the risk of overdosing a pet in heat, most diabetic females are spayed.

Diabetic pets can live for years if the disease is properly controlled. Research at Washington State University is continuing to determine the cause of inherited diabetes in young dogs. The work is expected to add to the knowledge of diabetes development in both humans and canines.

Sears recalls hazardous saws

A program to repair approximately 55,000 "Craftsman Motorized Miter Saws" which may pose a laceration hazard to consumers is being conducted by Sears, Roebuck & Company.

Sears is conducting the program voluntarily in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

The saws can accommodate several types of blades, including a carbide-tipped blade often used to cut soft metals. Because a carbide-tipped blade is thicker than the original blade provided with the saw, consumers may improperly fasten the carbide blade to the motor shaft, creating the possibility that the saw blade may spin off the saw while in use.

CPSC has been informed of three instances in 1980 in which carbide-tipped blades being used on the saws disengaged while still spinning. One incident resulted in severe facial lacerations to the consumer. No injuries were reported in the other two cases.

The repair program applies to the model 315.23730 and the 315.23731 "Craftsman Motorized Miter Saws." The model numbers can be found on a plate on the saw motor.

The saws have been sold by Sears nationwide from July 1978, through June, 1980, for approximately $200.

Consumers immediately should stop using carbide-tipped blades with these saws. To obtain a free repair kit, complete with installation instructions, consumers should contact their local Sears retail store or call toll-free 800-845-4781.

Anyone wishing to verify the brand name or the model numbers should contact CPSC's toll-free Hotline at 800-638-8326; in Maryland, 800-492-8363; and in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, 800-638-8333.

HGH generating more rumor than fact

Hancock General Hospital seems to be the topic of concern, especially for many of our senior citizens.

Many statements are being made, of which many are incorrect and causing a lot of confusion. People many times talk about subjects when they are not really informed and speculate as to what is happening.

There are many misinformed statements being circulated throughout the county about Hancock General, and some may not be of the whole truth.

We are seeking for answers to many of the questions you are asking, and we cannot find the answers to all, but we will continue to try.

In a conversation with A.A. (Dolph) Kellar Friday, he assured us that the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, of which he is president, will do everything in its power to keep the doors of the hospital open.

We can remember when there were only two full-time and one part-time doctor at Hancock General.

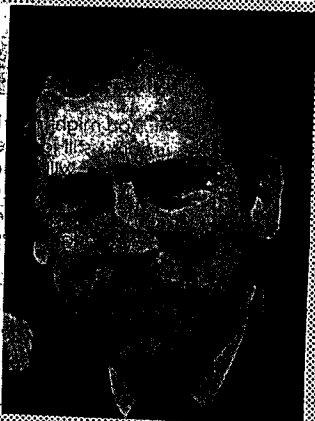

There are now seven active doctors on the staff at the local hospital, according to Administrator Harry Gilmore with the possibility of a new doctor coming very soon.

We hope the hospital will remain open, and do feel eyes of our officials have been opened by recent developments, and much needed improvements to the facility will be accomplished in the near future.

We need our hospital. We ask all of those having anything to do in that regard to try and work together, understand each other.

Hancock County needs Hancock General Hospital and the people need only the best in medical services.

News from the governor's office

Governor William Winter last week announced the submission of a grant proposal to the United States Department of Energy for establishment of a state Office of Consumer Services to represent consumer interests in state utility regulation.

The $250,000 application is for staffing of the office and its activities. If established, the Office of Consumer Services would help insure that a fair return would be granted to electric utilities in the public interest.

The Office would also make tactical assessments of the impact of proposed electric utility rate changes, provide technical or financial assistance to consumer groups in the presentation of their positions before utility regulatory agencies such as the state Public Service Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority-board, and advocate positions deemed representative of the position most advantageous to residential consumers.

"I believe a state Office of Consumer Services can play a significant role in the representation of consumer interests in state electric utility regulation," Winter said of the proposal.

"I have detected recently a greater awareness among Mississippi consumers regarding energy conservation and utility regulation. I am pleased to lend the resources of my office to efforts to achieve fair and equitable utility rates for both consumers and providers," Winter said.

Winter participated last week in the ground breaking of a health center in New Hebron which would provide local access to physicians for the first time in 12 years.

The governor said construction of the New Hebron Health Center is significant for all of Mississippi in that it provides health care in a rural setting. The New Hebron facility, which will be constructed at a cost of $237,000, will have three staff physicians, a staff dentist, and a nursing staff, including nurse practitioners.

"This facility illustrates our commitment to meeting the needs of our people," Winter said at the ground-breaking. "I have seen too many of my fellow Mississippians die and suffer as the result of inadequate medical care. This facility will give the people of this area access to prompt and expert medical attention," he said.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL

News

THE NEED FOR ACCOUNTABILITY

A Hinds County supervisor was recently questioned about his county's expenditure of public funds for a project in the supervisor's district. The official reportedly responded by saying, "I really don't know anything about it. So many times we fund things we don't know anything about."

The official's reported response and the conditions he described illustrate the need for change in the structure of county government.

The Brookings Institution conducted a study of county government administration at the request of the state Legislature and the governor in 1932, when annual county expenditures equaled $52 million and county supervisors' major functions were to maintain roads and bridges. The report stated, "In the counties of Mississippi, economy, if it is to be sane and durable, must rest on the solid foundation of a generally reorganized governmental structure."

Despite the recommendations of this study, the structure of county government has remained virtually unchanged. But two major changes have occurred in county government. The cost of county government has climbed from $59 million in 1932 to over $1 billion per year, and the responsibilities of the boards of supervisors have expanded to the point that today supervisors report they have at least 150 specific duties.

This growth in expenditures and responsibilities will continue, and the structures of Mississippi's county governments must change in order to keep pace with this growth.

The Mississippi Economic Council believes that Mississippians can be better served if lines of authority and accountability are clearly defined in county government.

The Council recommends that five fundamental principles be included in any reorganization. They are:

- the board of supervisors should be a part-time, policy-making body divested of administrative duties;
- a chief administrative officer should be required for every county;
- the legislative-administrative functions of government should be separated in every county;
- the "long ballot" of independently elected officers should be eliminated. These appointed officials should be answerable to the board of supervisors who, in turn, are answerable to the voters;
- all county affairs, including the operation of road systems, should be administered on a county-wide basis.

MEC believes that these fundamental principles will make county governments more efficient and accountable, while providing better government and better use of tax dollars for all Mississippians.

VA answers Lott's inquiry on Cubans in VA hospitals

June 27, 1980

Honorable Trent Lott
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C. 20515

Dear Mr. Lott:

The VA Administrator thanks you for your inquiry on behalf of Mr. Lawrence F. Parker of Pearlington, Ms., concerning hospitalization of Cuban refugees in VA Medical Centers.

Under the terms of a 1975 "Memorandum of Understanding" between the Veterans Administration and the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (now the Federal Emergency Management Agency FEMA), when there is a Presidential Declaration of emergency in any area of the U.S., the VA may be called upon to furnish emergency hospital services on a humanitarian basis.

On May 23, 1980, a FEMA representative requested emergency medical services for some of the Cuban refugees with psychiatric illnesses.

Under the terms of this agreement, 13

Cuban refugees requiring acute psychiatric care were admitted to the Tampa, Florida VA Medical Center.

The VA will be reimbursed for its expenditures by FEMA.

As of May 27, 1980, all 13 refugees had been discharged from the Tampa VA Medical Center. There were no admissions to other VA Medical Centers. There are no Cuban refugees in the VA hospital system at this time. No future admissions are contemplated.

I hope this information will clarify the matter.

Sincerely yours,
DAVID POGOLOFF

SPECIAL REPORT:

Recession Hits Hard

Disastrous economic news continues to dominate the national scene as productivity slumps and unemployment continues to rise.

The Department of Commerce has now revealed that our economic output suffered the worst decline since World War II in the second quarter of this year, plunging 9.1 percent.

And, spokesmen for the Carter administration conceded that unemployment is expected to be 8.5 or 9 percent by the end of the year. That means nearly 10 million Americans will be out of work and forced to rely on unemployment compensation or welfare to make ends meet.

For those fortunate enough to have jobs, the administration had more bad news. Real take-home pay dropped during the second quarter by five and a half percent. One administration spokesman admitted that, and I quote, "Until this decline can be reversed - through some combination of reduced inflation, employment growth, and tax reduction - economic growth is likely to be weak, with little or no reduction in unemployment."

That statement amounts to an admission of poor performance in solving economic problems. It also confirms that we really are having to contend with the effects of a major recession.

Particularly hard-hit by the recession are the automotive, steel and housing industries, and the agricultural sector of our economy. Three hundred thousand automobile workers have been laid off, employment in the steel industry is at the lowest ebb since the 1930s, and the housing industry has hit rock bottom. Nationwide, farmers are facing a 40 percent drop in real income this year, and their debt to income ratio is the heaviest, or worst, in history.

In Mississippi, the unemployment rate jumped about 25 percent from May to June, with almost 90,000 people in our state out of work. The 8.6 percent unemployment rate last month is the highest in five years.

Manufacturing jobs were down 10 percent below 1979 figures, and the transportation equipment and timber-related sectors have suffered the biggest losses, reflecting the nationwide slump in the automotive and housing industries.

In spite of the desperate need to help stimulate the economy and assure greater productivity in the private sector, the administration refuses to support a tax cut. Secretary of the Treasury G. William Miller insists in his statements to House and Senate committees that next year will be the appropriate time to act.

Meanwhile, new taxes are added to the already heavy burden, so that next year's federal tax take will be almost $100 billion more than it was this year.

Those of us in the Senate who have tried twice in recent weeks to cut taxes by a modest $35 billion have been outvoted by the majority at the urging of the White House.

I don't believe the American people can wait until next year for economic relief from this deepening recession. Those already out of work are literally in a depression, with the administration conceding that millions more may join them before Christmas.

The administration's tax and spend policies have brought our nation to the brink of economic disaster. The time to cut back and cut taxes is now.

PEACE THROUGH STRENGTH

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

When discussion turns to our nation's foreign policy, it seems clear that the greatest challenge facing the U.S. and its allies is to check the global ambitions of the Soviet Union.

And, the principal consideration behind American foreign policy must be our own interests and objectives, something we have seen too little of recently.

The concept I favor is one of peace through strength.

Surely we can negotiate with the Soviet Union on arms limitations, fishing rights and a variety of other issues, but we should do so only from a position of strength. U.S. policies toward Russia must not be based on naive expectations; unilateral concessions or expediency.

No agreement should be accepted which does not fundamentally enhance America's national security. In that connection, the flow of technology to the Soviet Union that could contribute to the growth of their military power must be stopped.

NATO As a cornerstone of the Western Alliance for three decades, NATO has stood on the firm foundations of American strategic strength, joint defense efforts and cooperation.

Yet, today, NATO and our allies face the greatest array of threats in history. We must develop a workable policy in western Europe which sees a partnership effort to rebuild a strong, confident alliance fully prepared to meet the threats and challenges of the 1980s.

MIDDLE EAST

In the past three years, the nations of the Middle East have gone through an unprecedented level of political, economic and military turmoil. Today, these countries are encircled as never before by the Soviet presence.

The Soviet is clear: to use subversion and the threat of military intervention to gain decisive leverage over countries which are subject to coercion.

America must reaffirm its commitment to helping find a peaceful solution to problems in the Middle East, including forging new friendships with all countries which become sensitive to American interests.

NORTH AMERICA

Until recently, our North American neighbors were among the most ignored. Even now, the U.S. simply does not pay the attention deserved by such countries as Canada and Mexico.

The American government must take steps to approve a North American accord, designed to foster close cooperation and mutual benefit with our closest neighbors.

I believe that peace is built from strength and based on a firm foreign policy.

Sheriff arrests six in burglary probes

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Sheriff's Department has charged six men in connection with several recent burglaries throughout the county.

Dwayne Mitchell, 19, of Kiln was indicted by the Grand Jury and charged by the sheriff Monday with the Feb. 25 robbery of several food items from Kiln Amusement School valued at approximately $500.

Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson said, "Mitchell was previously arrested on March 5 and charged with the burglary."

"He is charged with stealing three cases of turkeys, 23 dozen eggs, two cases of french fries, ground beef and meat," the sheriff explained.

Mitchell was released on $5,000 bond.

The Grand Jury also handed down an indictment for a Long Beach man in a June 15 burglary of drugs and money from Dr. Helen McGehee's office in Waveland and an attempted robbery of Dr. Robert Aker's Bay St. Louis Animal Clinic.

Harry Bourgeois, 21, of Route 1, Box 94M, was arrested Thursday afternoon under the indictment and charged in the burglary and attempted burglary.

The Long Beach man was released on $10,000 bond.

In another Grand Jury indictment, Stephan Alan Sutherland, 27, of Route 2, Box 754A, Bay St. Louis, is accused Wednesday of grand larceny in connection with the recent theft of a $3,500 boat from a Shoreline Park residence.

Peterson said, "Sutherland is also wanted in New Mexico for a parole violation and has been charged in two other local burglaries."

Sutherland is now at Hancock County's Jail in Bay St. Louis pending extradition.

Hearings for all three have been scheduled for the October Circuit Court term.

Also Wednesday, the Sheriff's Department arrested and charged three Bay St. Louis men with the recent theft of an air conditioner valued at $600 from a Bayou Phillips residence.

Sutherland was also charged along with Clyde P. Ellis and Olen Bounds, both 19 and residents of 810 Washington Street.

The two Washington Street residents were released on $1,500 bond each and are scheduled for trial before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise.

The Sheriff's Department also arrested Glen Spiers of Route 2, Box 719, Bay St. Louis, in the theft of a $300 aluminum speed hull from a Shoreline Park residence.

Spiers was released on $1,500 bond.

Spiers is scheduled for a preliminary hearing before Justice Court Judge John Chevis.

Investigators Delbert Seay and Alvin Linder assisted Peterson in the investigations and arrests.

Resignation.....CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A

The Supervisor president stated, "We (the board of supervisors) were unaware of the serious structure conditions. We really did not know about them until a remark was made by a party involved in the possible purchase of the hospital."

"The equipment needed for the intensive care of patients and also a scanner need was not known by us until we met with the medical staff last week," Kellar added.

Kellar allowed, "The supervisors are going to add a mill of revenue for the hospital. This will enable them to purchase equipment they need to update the medical facilities."

Hospital trustee Mrs. Lydia Schultz Friday stated, "I personally talked to members of the board of supervisors in March, 1979 telling them of the conditions at HGH, but apparently they did not believe the seriousness of the conditions."

Both Chevis and Rutherford indicated the future is bright for Hancock County and HGH.

Dr. Chevis said, "The future looks bright for Hancock General with the specialists coming and new industries opening up."

On some of the problems, Chevis said, "There are no plans for updating the facilities to accommodate more patients. HGH has to keep pace with the growth in population with larger and more modern facilities."

Gilmore stated, "The medical equipment at Hancock General is some of the most up to date in hospitals in this area." He did indicate additional medical equipment could be used by the local hospital.

The air conditioning equipment was cited by several persons interviewed as being a serious problem at Hancock General.

Gilmore said the age of 20 years on the equipment is one of the problems.

Gilmore indicated the outlook at Hancock General is good, stating, "The addition of Dr. Bertrand Sy, pediatrician, as an active member to the staff in recent days will enable us to offer medical services for children whose parents formerly had to take them to other cities for treatment."

Dr. Sy specializes in the treatment of children from new borns to the age of 14.

A dietitian consultant has been added to the staff, according to the administrator, and also several new nurses.

Gilmore did add, "Like any other hospital, we always need more nurses."

"We are now talking to a cardiologist and it looks like a good possibility he will come here on the active staff," Gilmore allowed. He said the cardiologist is now on the consulting staff at HGH.

The administrator stated they were also talking to an internal medicine specialist who may locate here in the near future.

Supervisor President Kellar said, "The supervisors will keep in closer touch with HGH in the future and I want to emphasize that this is no reflection on any board of trustee member at the hospital."

"We are going to work with the hospital board, administrator and chief of staff to create a hospital we can all be proud of having in Hancock County," Kellar added.

The administrator listed the following doctors as members of the active staff Friday: Dr. Joseph Nodruft, chief of staff; Dr. John Levens, Dr. Marion Wolfe Sr., Dr. Helen McGehee, Dr. Erlinda Alcala, Dr. Joseph Lee, and Dr. Bertrand Sy.

The consulting staff at HGH numbers about 15 doctors which include Chevis, Rutherford and Byrne, according to Gilmore.

role in our community," Ryan stated.

"Regardless of the name of the program or level of the program, we're in the business of helping all of the children," Ryan said.

"We'd be living in one big contradiction if we didn't do everything we could to prevent any of these programs from being hurt, he added.

Regarding the possibility of the school providing co-educational classes for the seventh grade this fall, Ryan reported, "The seventh grade will not be co-educational this year."

Presently, the Catholic school system admits only girls in grades 7-12.

A Catholic education is only available for teenage boys in this area at St. Stanislaus High School operated by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart.

Ryan stated, "If there is any possibility of boys attending grades 7-12 in the future, this would have to be considered and studied by Bishop Howze, the diocesan office and SSC."

"In other words, everyone who would be effected by a co-educational program in the upper grades would have to be consulted to contribute as much input as possible," Ryan said.

The school principal reported that in the first three days after establishment of the new school system, he received inquiries and registrations from the parents of some 25 students.

"Last year the combined enrollment of both schools systems was approximately 400 students. This year we are projecting an opening enrollment of 500 students," Ryan reported.

The principal said he will also strive for AA accreditation for the elementary school from the State Department of Education and the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges.

"OLA presently maintains and will continue to maintain state and Southern Association AA accreditation and we are already preparing to gain the same accreditation for the elementary," Ryan revealed.

Bay Catholic Elementary presently has minimum state accreditation.

Ryan has also enlisted the assistance of Dr. David K. Stuart, "professor of educational administration, and a group of doctoral students at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg to assist him in evaluating school facilities to be utilized in the most economical and educationally sound way."

for the evaluation and would have gotten a two year accreditation from the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation on Tuesday."

Gilmore said the supervisors have provided the hospital with several on the interior of the hospital. The work will probably take up to three months to finish," Gilmore added.

The administrator commented, "We are looking for some monies to purchase some drapes to replace the old venetian blinds in the patient rooms."

Gilmore and Johnson said they would like to make it clear that there are no interns running the emergency room at Hancock General.

Both said they would like the public to know, "The doctors in the emergency room at nights and on weekends at HGH are not interns, but they are residents. These residents are licensed medical doctors who are studying to be specialists such as surgeons, heart doctors and others."

Gilmore said last month at a special HGH trustee board meeting, at which time the loss of accreditation was revealed to the public, "The over-all operation of Hancock General is the same as it has been, nothing has changed, all services are still offered our residents while we are awaiting the new evaluation."

On talking about the evaluation Gilmore stated, "It really shows whether you are up to par with other hospitals; all we really need is a license from the state to continue operation of our facility."

"Paper work" was listed as the area which HGH received the most demerits from the commission.

It was reported that in recent years the Veterans Administration and Charity Hospitals in New Orleans had lost accreditation from the commission.

Hospital officials all indicated the evaluation survey is a voluntary rating request by the local hospital.

Louisiana man drowns in Bay rescue attempt

By RICH ADAMS

A Hammond, La. man drowned in waters off the Bay St. Louis Yacht Club Saturday afternoon while trying to bring his 10-year-old son, who was floating on a rubber raft, into shore.

Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams said Loris Garner, 48, 104 Palm Dr., Hammond, La., was picnicking with his wife and son Joey beneath the US-90 automobile bridge when his son started to drift toward the yacht club.

Garner's wife ran to Butch Buhler and Earl Childress, who were launching a 14-foot aluminum john boat, telling them her son was drowning.

Buhler and Childress approached the youth on the raft when the 10-year-old began screaming, "My daddy is drowning," Williams reports.

Garner's body floated to the top of the water, and Childress and Buhler pulled him into the small boat.

The rescuers headed for the yacht club pier while administering cardiopulmonary resuscitation when the small boat overturned, spilling all three men into the water some 50 feet from the pier, the chief added.

Childress held Garner's head above the water until a boat from the yacht club, operated by Robert G. Bow, arrived some three minutes after the smaller craft overturned, Williams explained.

Bay St. Louis Auxiliary Patrolman Gary Griffin, who saw the incident while patrolling Beach Boulevard, was waiting on the pier with three people experienced in administering CPR, he continued.

Mobile Medic arrived on the scene to take Garner to Hancock General Hospital, where he was declared dead after a 1.5 hour fight to save his life, Williams added.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Independent daughter

Q. Our daughter has become too, too independent. She is 24 and twice divorced. She moved out of our house into an apartment because I didn't think she should be staying out until the wee hours. She dates different men, goes away weekends with girlfriends and doesn't bother to mention her trips beforehand. After not hearing from her I am frantic. So she doesn't come by or call like she used to. I suspect (and mothers always know these things) that she is having an affair. I'm angry but most of all heartbroken - my only daughter. How can I cope with this?

A. Perhaps she resents what she imagines to be parental domination. Don't try to regulate her life. Put her into God's hands. He can and will guide her better than you can. Try to be natural and pleasant with her rather than pushing for details of her life. She will ultimately mature and your relationship will not be broken. In fact, it may be stronger.

Perhaps you will find help in our booklet, Try Faith and Watch What Happens, which is on its way to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Shocked and humiliated

Q. I worked with a lady who was always envious, deceitful and sued everyone. It happened she asked me to come to the ladies rest room as she had something to ask me. Like a nut I went. I could not tell her what she wanted to know, but before leaving I patted her on the shoulder and said I hoped we could communicate better in the future. She went back and told the boss I was acting "lovey-dovey." He wouldn't even let me tell him what happened. This darn near gave me a heart attack. I was so shocked and humiliated I finally quit. I am bitter and overwhelmed. How can a person cope with a vicious liar?

A. It sounds like you walked right into the trap set by your co-worker and you apparently didn't get a fair hearing. Let this be a lesson on how to avoid becoming involved in the first place. I am sorry you quit your job. However, remain calm and be ready to present a logical, well-documented case on your own behalf if the opportunity arises. Most importantly, forgive the one who has wronged you. Send out loving thoughts. The power of forgiveness and love will see you through and will wash away any lingering bitterness. You'll be set free from your humiliation.

Teased at school

Q. I have buck teeth. Kids at school tease me about it, and I lose my temper very easily. I am only 9 going on 10. My mouth isn't strong enough for braces. Do you have any advice on how to keep my temper?

A. There's one sure way to keep the other kids from teasing you about your buck teeth. Don't react. Just turn and walk away. You see, it won't be any fun for them to tease you anymore. After all, they are doing it just to get a rise out of you. Fool them. Keep your temper under control by telling yourself that you're dealing with them in your own special way. Then when your mouth is strong enough, see what dental work can be done to correct the situation.

To The Editor

Letter to the Religious Editor of the Sea Coast Echo:

Members of the Pineville Presbyterian Church hope that you will find room to print the following message, written by Abraham Lincoln.

We believe it provides food for thought.

"YOU CANNOT BRING ABOUT PROSPERITY BY DISCOURAGING THRIFT."

"YOU CANNOT STRENGTHEN THE WEAK BY WEAKENING THE STRONG."

"YOU CANNOT HELP THE WAGE EARNER BY PULLING DOWN THE WAGE PAYER."

"YOU CANNOT FURTHER THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN BY ENCOURAGING

CLASS HATRED. "YOU CANNOT HELP THE POOR BY DESTROYING THE RICH." "YOU CANNOT KEEP OUT OF TROUBLE BY SPENDING MORE THAN YOU EARN."

"YOU CANNOT BUILD CHARACTER AND COURAGE BY TAKING AWAY MAN'S INITIATIVE AND INDEPENDENCE." "YOU CANNOT HELP MEN PERMANENTLY BY DOING FOR THEM WHAT THEY COULD AND SHOULD DO FOR THEMSELVES."

Submitted by Mrs. Robert Bird and Mrs. Maureen Young, both of Long Beach.

Pasture improvement promoted this Fall

With the help of the Pastureland Committee of the Mississippi Association of Conservation Districts, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service agronomists are preparing to promote September 1980 as Pasture Improvement Month.

"In looking at pastures and haylands in Mississippi, it is obvious that improvement is needed," said Dr. Lamar Kimbrough, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service agronomist (forages). "Some of the basic needs include lime, fertilizer, weed control and improved species."

Most Mississippi pastures need lime. This need has been increased by using acid-forming fertilizers such as ammonium nitrate, the most common source of nitrogen used on pastures and hay fields in the state.

"Many pastures need fertilizing or additional fertilizer. A traditional 300 pounds of 13-13-13 per acre may not grow your forage needs," he said.
